Renovation of MacDonnell Regional Council Alice Springs Office supports local economy

The Alice Springs office of MacDonnell Regional Council will be officially opened by the Hon Chanston Paech MLA Minister for Local Government at 5:00pm on Thursday 27 May 2021.

Central Desert Regional Council (CDRC) and MacDonnell Regional Council (MRC) were proud to be able to support local jobs and the economy in this large construction project. As construction occurred during the COVID-19 pandemic, the boost to the construction industry and supply businesses in the Central Australian region provided certainty in unprecedented times.

Designed by Central Australian architect practice Susan Dugdale & Associates, the building was constructed and project managed by MPH Projects, a well-known Central Australian construction company, who successfully tendered for the project. MPH Projects utilised the services of 29 Alice Springs-based contractors in the build, with over 80 workers employed, including 15 apprentices. Their skills included demolition, concreting, flooring, cabinet making, scaffolding, rigging, rendering, power and data, window tinting and fire systems. MPH Projects sourced 79% of all materials, as determined by value, from 37 local suppliers. The majority of products sourced non-locally were not available in Alice Springs.

In striving towards both Council's objective of increasing Aboriginal employment opportunities through tendered contracts, 3241 hours of Aboriginal employment was achieved during the office redevelopment.

For this building project, the joint owners of the buildings on the Bagot St site, CDRC and MRC received a grant of $1.5 million from the Northern Territory Government Strategic Local Government Infrastructure Fund (SLGIF) to expand on office space. CDRC and MRC allocated $1.5 million each, a contribution of one third from all parties.

Another benefit from the $4.5 million MacDonnell Regional Council Alice Springs office building project includes the extra office space provided to deliver valued services to constituents of both regional councils. Both regional council teams play an important role in supporting the wide variety of valued services delivered by their great teams located in each of the communities. The new facility also includes an updated Council Chambers providing a space for formal decision-making processes.

The head-quarter based teams of the CDRC and MRC had expanded to outgrow the previous office buildings on Bagot St. Approval was received from the Development Consent Authority to expand office space by building a second story on the existing ground floor office.

Diane Hood, CEO CDRC said there is mutual benefit to both MRC and CDRC of the refit and it is a great example of the sharing of resources and infrastructure, as well as the close working relationship that we have. “Refreshing our shared asset has been worthwhile and demonstrates the close working relationship that both our Councils enjoy.”
